

Leading the Core Business in the 21st Century Global Society

“High Quality 21st Century Instruction in Every Classroom, Every Day, for Every Student.”

“This conference team has provided us with the best conference we have ever had in Newport News Public Schools.”

-Dr. Ashby Kilgore
Superintendent
Newport News Public Schools

“This [type of international forum] has stimulated our teachers to think globally.”

-Mike Evans
Director of Student Leadership
Newport News Public Schools

“An international leadership and learning forum is important to all of us, and every state in the US should be involved in this kind of collaboration and communication.”

-Debbie Daniels
KyCLS State Director
Kentucky Department of Education

Edwards Educational Services, Inc.

One Summit, Two Events ~

December 10-12, 2008 and June, 2009 (dates TBD)
Louisville, Kentucky

Summit Overview: A New Opportunity for Educators!

Participants to this unique, innovative event will have the opportunity to interact virtually and in person with leading practitioners from continents and countries including Australia, South Africa, the United States and the UK, who will support educators in mapping the future for its students. The first three day event in December will lay the foundation of the three summit strands: Effective Schooling, Effective Learning, and Effective Leadership in a global society. Between December and June, summit participants will have the opportunity to reflect upon and develop their thinking with support from the summit team, which will reconvene in June to help build the global networks. The June summit will then enable the participants to begin implementing their action plans for educating students in a 21st century global society. This innovative summit helps attendees examine schools, learning, and leading students in a 21st Century, global network.

Summit Aims:

- To consider the benefits of global networking as a resource for educators
- To develop the concept of each educator’s role in and contribution to global education
- To facilitate a network of global educators and practitioners to collaborate on an on-going basis
- To contribute to shaping a vision for 21st century education
- To assist educators in preparing their students for global citizenship
- To share the experience and work of leading practitioners from around the world
- To contribute to the further development of school leaders in educating students with a global perspective
- To develop a process of continuous growth and professional networking opportunities in a rapidly changing world

Do not miss the opportunity to network with educators all around the world who will help you implement high quality 21st Century instruction in every classroom, every day, for every student!

Contact Shirley LaFavers today to reserve your place at this international event:
1.800.928.5272 or e-mail: Shirley@kasa.org